A NEW KIND OF FREEDOM

Where was he? Where was the man caught in adultery with this woman? No one commits this particular sin on his or her own. Indeed, the scribes and Pharisees say they caught the woman in the very act of adultery. Someone must have been with her. Where was he now?

I wonder if Jesus asked that question himself, if that's what he pondered as he scribbled in the sand. The law these men self-righteously cite is clear: In cases of adultery "both the man and the woman . . . shall die" (Deut 22:22). Yet they brought her, and her alone, to stand in shame. The hypocrisy is thick. The injustice is evident. And Jesus would have none of it.

In refusing to play their game, Jesus confronted the social structures, legal disparities, and cultural norms that would shield a man but stone a woman. This is not what God wants, his actions seem to say. Standing up to the crowd, Jesus questioned the conventional - tearing down the façade of fairness we tack up in our desperate attempt to hide the mess we make of the world.

But in pointing out injustice, Jesus didn't try to round up all the guilty parties. He didn't demand that the man be punished with equal force. That's our notion of justice. Instead, Jesus let everyone go, and so offered a new kind of freedom. What he said to the woman, he says to us - faithful disciples, Pharisees and scribes that we are—"Go . . . and sin no more."

STEWARDSHIP REFLECTIONS Something Old, Something New

Isaiah 43:16-21 / Phil 3:8-14 / John 8:1-11

"Praise Be Jesus Christ!" This was the greeting you would receive from the Discalced Carmelites that lived in our diocese not long ago, whether in writing, in person or over the phone. Coming from a nun, it doesn't sound so surprising, but what if it came from your tongue? From the tongue of every believer? I'd bet the devil would be beside himself! People might even wonder why you would even say such a thing. Why would you say such a thing? Could you say such a thing? Give an answer as to why you believe, as we profess in the Nicene Creed every Sunday, "in one Lord Jesus Christ"? In today's Gospel, a woman is allegedly caught in the very act of adultery, and will be stoned to death, according to the law of Moses. Talk about despair! Fortunately, the Pharisees did something right, unknowingly, and brought the woman to the only judge in all of creation that can weigh the heart perfectly. Isaiah, in the first reading exhorts, "see, I am doing something new!" The Pharisees escort the woman in with the old law, and Jesus "springs forth" with the new law, mercy! There is a good chance she wants to know who just saved her from certain death. Guess what? Jesus did the same thing for you and I, and together with the woman, we are "Given" new life, and can proclaim—"Praise Be Jesus Christ!"
